How it works

Join the program.

Register with a WSIB-approved health and safety provider to join the program. Whether you need one-on-one coaching, online support or over-the-phone consultation, we have a provider that's right for you. See the list of providers at wsib.ca/healthandsafety.

Take a quick online health and safety assessment to see where we can help.

Once you've registered with your provider, you'll complete an assessment to help find health and safety gaps in your workplace. Then your provider will help you identify what health and safety topics will work to fill those gaps.

Develop your workplace health and safety program.

You'll have almost a full year to finish this step - this is where you'll work to build your topics into the everyday processes of your business. But don't worry, your provider will be there with the support and tools you need to make your topics a regular part of your everyday work activities.

Show us how you've applied your topics and earn your rebate!

Once you've completed your health and safety topics, show us the work you've done to make your business healthier and safer. The WSIB will review your work, and you'll earn a rebate on your WSIB premiums for every completed topic.
